SUPPLEMENT TO MOTION FOR EXTENSION OF TIME TO FILE RESPONSE TO STATE’S MOTION TO SET EXECUTION DATE

On November 27, 2013, Mr. Lee Hall moved for an extension of time to file his response to the State’s Motion to Set Execution Date. As discussed in his November 27 Motion, Mr. Hall has requested an extension based primarily upon counsel’s heavy caseload and her obligations under Tenn. Sup. Ct. R. 12.4(A). In addition, Mr. Hall is a plaintiff in a legal challenge to the State’s new lethal injection protocol, which is currently pending before the Davidson County Chancery Court. West et al. v. Schofield, et al. No. 13-1627-I, In The Chancery Court, Part I, 20th Judicial District. At the time the motion for extension was filed, Mr. Hall noted that the time frame for the adjudication of the protocol was unknown. Further, Mr. Hall stated that he opposed the setting of an execution date during the pendency of any lethal injection litigation.

In light of recent scheduling developments before the Chancery Court, and in the hopes of providing this Court with a full picture of the related litigation, Mr. Hall respectfully submits this supplement to his Motion and requests that the Court deny the State's motion to set an execution date at this time for the following reasons:

1. On September 27, 2013, the Tennessee Department of Correction adopted a new lethal injection protocol which changed its method of execution by utilizing compounded pentobarbital as the sole drug involved in an execution. Mr. Hall filed a grievance regarding the new protocol in October 2013, and his grievance was denied finally on November 13, 2013. Mr. Hall promptly sought relief in chancery court on November 21, 2013, when he was granted permission to intervene as an additional plaintiff in a pending challenge to the protocol, Stephen West et. al. vs. Derrick Schofield et. al., No. 13-1627-I.¹

2. On December 2, 2013, Chancellor Bonnyman entered a scheduling order in West et al. v. Schofield, et al. (attached as Exhibit 1), which provides for expedited discovery on the following timeline:

Defendants' Response to Initial Interrogatories	December 4, 2013
Defendants' Answer to Complaint:	December 11, 2013

Depositions Completed	June 1, 2014
Pretrial Conference	June 16, 2014
Hearing Dates/Trial	July 7-9, 2014

3. In setting forth this schedule, Chancellor Bonnyman explained on the record that she was drawing on her own experience in declaratory judgment actions, which often take as long as 12-18 months to be resolved, and was also considering the needs of other cases on her docket. See Partial Transcript of Telephone Conference, Dec. 2, 2013 (Ex. 2). In addition, Chancellor Bonnyman relied upon this Court's admonitions in State v. West, No. M1987-130-SC-DPE-DD (Tenn. Nov. 29, 2010). There, when a new lethal injection protocol was challenged in Chancery Court for the first time, this Court declared:

The principles of constitutional adjudication and procedural fairness require that decisions regarding constitutional challenges to acts of the Executive and Legislative Branches be considered in light of a fully developed record addressing the specific merits of the challenge. The requirement of a fully developed record envisions a trial on the merits during which both sides have an opportunity to develop the facts that have a bearing on the constitutionality of the challenged provision.

Id. at 9 (quoting West). Accordingly, Chancellor Bonnyman adopted a schedule that would provide for expedited discovery while still allowing the type of “fully developed record” mandated by this Court in West. Id.; see also id. at 8 (citing West, M2010-02275-SCR-11-CV, for the proposition that resolution of lethal injection challenge requires evidence presented and weighed at adversarial hearing).

4. Undersigned counsel Kelly Gleason represents Mr. Hall in the lethal injection litigation before the Chancery Court, with the assistance of a law clerk and paralegal. Counsel anticipates that the lethal injection litigation will require time and effort in addition to her other responsibilities as described in the November 27 Motion.

5. In the November 27 Motion, Mr. Hall asked that this Court enter an Order granting him up to, and including, July 18, 2014, to prepare a response to the State’s motion to set an execution date. Mr. Hall now asks that the Court deny the State’s motion to set an execution date at this time. This would serve the interests of judicial economy, as the resolution of the lethal injection litigation will likely have a significant impact on the course of this litigation. Given the July 2014 trial date and the likelihood of an appeal regardless of the outcome in that court, it would be premature to set an execution date.

WHEREFORE, for all of the reasons discussed above, as well as those discussed in Mr. Hall's November 27 Motion, Mr. Hall respectfully asks this Court to deny the State's motion to set an execution date at this time.

Respectfully submitted,

CLAUDIA C. BONNYMAN, CHANCELLOR
CHANCERY COURT, PART 1

The date for the first scheduled event has passed. Lawyers on both sides indicate that the interrogatories just addressed, seek the identities of the unknown defendants. Even with the protective order, the State has objections. Of course, valid objections should be made.

The exchange describing a temporary discovery dispute over the interrogatories illuminates why a shortened trial schedule is not workable if the Court hopes to reach the merits. It does appear likely there are merits to be reached.

1 (Proceedings held, reported but not transcribed.)

2 The Court convened a conference on 3 December 2nd, 2013, after the parties submitted 4 proposed schedules for pretrial and trial events in 5 this case.

6 And now off the record just a second.

7 (Proceedings held off the record.)

8 THE COURT: Now we're back on the 9 record for the bench ruling.

10 The Court had initially announced that 11 because of the January 15, 2014, execution date, the 12 declaratory judgment decision must be issued by 13 December 31 at the latest to allow for appellate 14 review before an execution date arises. The Court 15 was mindful of the inadequacy of time that the 16 December 31st, 2013, deadline would allow, both the 17 trial and appellate phase of the litigation. But the 18 deadline appeared to be necessary given the orders
19 issued by the criminal court and the Tennessee 20 Supreme Court regarding the plaintiff, Mr. Irick.
21 Neither the plaintiffs nor the State were able to 22 propose a schedule fitting within this Court's 23 initial plan.

24 The plaintiff seeks a trial date of July 7, 25 starting July 7, 2014. And I think, gentlemen that

1 and ladies, that July 6, I think that's a Sunday, so 2 we're talking about starting on July 7, 2014. That's 3 the date that the plaintiffs seek, while the 4 defendants scheduled the trial date for January 6, 5 2014.

6 The January 15, 2014, execution date, which 7 so constrains the parties and the Court, would set -- 8 appears to have been set shortly after the 9 State-reviewed execution protocol was issued but at a 10 point when the Supreme Court could not take into 11 account the fact of a Tennessee constitutional 12 challenge to the protocol now pending before this 13 Court.

14 And as for the issues in the case, the State 15 complains that the -- that the plaintiffs delayed 16 their lawsuit unreasonably when they filed their 17 complaint 60 days after the protocol was issued 18 rather than filing the complaint earlier.
19 The plaintiffs contend they were not allowed access 20 to public records deemed confidential by the state 21 legislature at T.C.A Section 10-7-104 and thus could 22 not discover matters essential to their lawsuit such 23 as identity of the pharmacy to track the compounds of 24 the lethal drug used in the execution.

25 The plaintiffs contend that they sought these

1 public records before the protocol -- some of the 2 public records before the protocol was issued. The 3 Court notes that the parties did not discuss the 4 protective order for the confidential material until 5 the week the complaint was filed, even though neither 6 party disagreed to a protective order solution.
7 Confidentiality (B) Further, as regards ~~to~~ delay, although it can 8 be said ^{that} the plaintiffs should have been ready to 9 challenge the new protocol earlier, when the Court 10 became involved, the State was unable to accept 11 service of the complaint on numerous defendants, even 12 those who were probably state employees. In other 13 words, the State could not advise the Court whether 14 certain defendants were employed by the State or were 15 subcontractors.

16 By the time the State filed its proposed 17 schedule on November 27th, the State was authorized 18 to accept service of process on behalf of all ~~of its~~ ^(B)
19 defendants. By the time of the December 2nd 20 conference, the State was aware of its preference for 21 an expert witness but was unable to reveal the 22 identity of the expert because of some administrative 23 matters.

24 The plaintiffs contend that the State has all 25 the information and they, the plaintiffs, have been

1 dependent on the recalcitrant State for many actual 2 allegations and background and such.

3 Whatever the comparative effect of the delays 4 recounted here, the combined impact was relatively 5 small. The fact that no one is to blame for the 6 present scheduling dilemma does not make the problem 7 less serious for the Court, however.

8 At the conference, the plaintiffs discussed 9 Tennessee discovery rules which contains the built-in 10 delay such as the manner in which expert witness 11 information is revealed. The State contends that its 12 -- contends that its proposal that experts be 13 addressed along with Rule 26.02 disclosures the week 14 of December 16 is doable, and it appears that the 15 State does not contemplate depositions for the 16 experts but will make decisions about its proof from 17 the formal written disclosures provided by the 18 plaintiffs while the plaintiffs instead built in time 19 for depositions of the opposing expert.

20 And now I am going to briefly discuss the 21 principles of law that I'm looking at so that I can 22 think about how to schedule this case in light of the 23 execution constraints. And I am reciting first or 24 reading first from the November 6, 2010, order from 25 the Supreme Court in the -- the first entry, West

1 case, Case No. -- Chancery No. 10-1675, Part I. And 2 the Supreme Court number is M2010-02275 scr 11 cv.
3 And from that order, the following is taken. And 4 this should be in quotes, please.

5 "Decisions involving such profoundly
6 important and sensitive issues such as the ones 7 involved in this case are best decided on evidence 8 that has been presented, admitted, and weighed in an 9 adversarial hearing such as the one that was held by 10 the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of 11 Tennessee in Harbison v. Little, Middle District of 12 Tennessee, July 12, 2010. The current record in this 13 case contains no such evidence. Accordingly, we have 14 determined that both Mr. West and the State of 15 Tennessee should be afforded an opportunity to 16 present evidence supporting their respective 17 positions to the chancery court and that the chancery 18 court should be afforded an opportunity to make 19 findings of fact, conclusions of law with regard to 20 the issues presented by the parties." And then -- 21 and that's end of the quote.

22 Then taken from the November 29, 2010, order
23 related to ^(B) ~~in~~ the same chancery court case -- ~~no, I'm sorry,~~ 24 this was filed in the circuit court for Union County, 25 No. M1987, Supreme Court DPE-DD. And the Supreme

1 Court states, "The principles of constitutional 2 adjudication and procedural fairness require" -- and 3 if I didn't say this before, this needs to be in 4 quotes, please. "The principles of constitutional 5 adjudication and procedural fairness require that 6 decisions regarding constitutional challenges to acts 7 of the executive and legislative branches be 8 considered in light of a fully developed record 9 addressing the specific merits of the challenge. The 10 requirement of a fully developed record envisions a 11 trial on the merits during which both sides have an 12 opportunity to develop the facts, has a bearing on 13 the constitutionality of the challenge provision.
14 Mr. West is correct that the trial court has not been 15 given the opportunity to consider in the first 16 instance whether the revised protocol eliminates the 17 constitutional deficiencies the trial court 18 identified in a prior protocol of whether the revised 19 protocol is constitutional." And that's -- and 20 that's the end of the quote.

21 And now as to a separate section of this 22 decision, the ~~defendants~~ ^{State's} (B) proposal implicitly 23 concedes that it is impossible by January 15, 2014, 24 for the parties to conduct necessary discovery to 25 bring the case to trial in time for the Court to

1 deliberate, issue a ruling, and still allow even 2 minimal time for considered appellate review. The 3 schedule that the ^{State} ~~defendants~~ propose^s contemplates ⁽³⁾
4 discovery and trial preparation ^{that} will extend past 5 December 31, 2013. And, lawyers, remember, I didn't 6 say this has to be done, you have to present a 7 schedule that matches December 31, 2013, but I did 8 state at our earlier conference, the trial court did 9 state at the earlier conference that I did not see 10 how this Court, whether they -- did not see how there 11 could be appellate review of any decision or 12 fact-finding this Court makes without having the 13 trial before or on December 31, 2013.

14 The time the ^{State} ~~defendants~~ would allot for 15 discovery and trial preparation is too short to 16 develop and present complex factual issues that must 17 be decided. Yet even that allotment of time is 18 impracticably long, because it forces a reduction in 19 an already inadequate amount of time for this Court 20 and the appellate court to consider the merits and 21 issue their ruling.

22 The plaintiffs proposed a trial schedule
23 that, in light of the execution date, is even more 24 unworkable. The timetable the plaintiffs propose is 25 otherwise reasonable and in fact shortens the time

1 for litigation of civil lawsuits of this complexity.
2 Most declaratory judgment actions in chancery court
3 in Davidson County are resolved within one year.
4 Some declaratory judgment actions require 18 months.

5 The plaintiffs' schedule -- adoption of the 6 plaintiff's schedule would be more fair to other 7 litigants whose cases have long been scheduled for 8 trial over the next month but who will now lose their 9 places or could lose their places on the Court's 10 schedule to make way for hurried disposition of this 11 case. Because the plaintiffs' schedule is 12 objectively more reasonable, the Court adopts ^{their} ~~its~~ 13 plan, ^{their} ~~its~~ schedule, with the notice from the trial
14 court that the schedule will be adhered to ^(B) absent a 15 different directive from the Supreme Court or a 16 different schedule.

17 And I'm going to dictate this schedule into 18 this order so that any review can be done in this one 19 document. The schedule adopted by the Court is, 20 initial interrogatory, start by November 27, 2013;
21 response -- response by December 2nd, 2013.
22 Answer to complaint, December 11, 2013. And this is 23 the one provision that both parties agree to. And 24 their schedule, that is, the answer to complaint, 25 will be filed on December 11, because that's when the 1 State stated it could file its answer, ⁽⁷³⁾ ~~answer the~~ 2 ~~parties' discovery.~~ Written interrogatories or 3 requests for production of documents will be served 4 January 10, 2014, response to production by January 5 31, 2014. Nonparties' discovery request of 6 production of documents served by February 10, 2014, 7 production by March 1, 2014. Parties' and 8 nonparties' discovery, requests for production, 9 inspection, copying, testing, or sampling of things, 10 and entry upon land for inspection and other 11 purposes, supplemental interrogatories and/or 12 requests for production of documents, requests for 13 admissions served by March 10, 2014, completed by 14 April 3, 2013. Parties' identification of experts 15 May 1, 2014, depositions completed by June 1, 2014.

16 Pretrial conference on June 16, 2014, with the trial
17 date to begin on Monday, July 7, 2014. And the Court 18 is setting aside July 6, 7, and 8 in case those three 19 days are needed.

20 And, lawyers, let me stop here and look at my 21 notes to see if there's something else that I need to 22 add.

23 July ^{7th} ~~7th~~ ^{8th} and ⁽⁷³⁾ ~~9th~~, 2014, ^{will} ~~would~~ be the trial 24 dates.

25 Lawyers, is there anything else that I need

1 to address besides how the transcript should be 2 managed?

3 MR. PASSINO: No, your Honor. And 4 we've got the court reporter, Mr. Ratekin, here. We 5 have asked him about how fast he could get this to 6 you. And based on my past experience, you have liked 7 to have the transcript with you when you enter the 8 order or to attach it to the order. So it's now in 9 his hands.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Do we know how 11 quickly such an expedited matter could be managed?
12 Can we ask our court reporter that?

13 MR. PASSINO: He is looking at -- he is 14 working right now, and he is looking at the speaker.
15 What do you think?

16 THE COURT REPORTER: Two days.

17 MR. PASSINO: Is two days fast enough
18 for the Court? How about if we call back --

19 THE COURT: How about just -- you know, 20 it doesn't have to be -- my dictation is not perfect.
21 It doesn't have to be perfect.

22 MR. PASSINO: What about this? Because 23 there may be some misunderstanding on my part. What 24 about just the transcription of her order? How fast 25 could you get that?

1 THE COURT REPORTER: Tomorrow.

2 THE COURT: Yeah. I think that's more

3 -- that would be what I would expect. I'm sorry I

4 made you think -- I don't need the -- I do not need

5 the transcript of the hearing.

6 MR. PASSINO: Right.

7 THE COURT: I might want to get it

8 later, but I don't need it.

9 MR. PASSINO: Okay. All right.

10 THE COURT: It was not a hearing,

11 anyway; it was a conference. If you wanted the 12 transcript of the conference, of course, that would 13 be up to you. But I don't need it to enter the 14 order.

15 MR. PASSINO: I understand, and it was 16 my misunderstanding. So tomorrow sometime.

17 THE COURT: Okay. So the cover order

18 will just say that the Court adopted the plaintiffs'

19 trial schedule, and the transcript of the bench

20 ruling is incorporated into this order, and I will

21 sign it. And then everybody can do with it what they 22 need to do.

23 MR. PASSINO: And we will have the 24 court reporter, then, e-mail it, if that's not

25 inappropriate, to the Court and all parties, the 1 transcript of your --

2 THE COURT: Well, let me ask you this.
3 I don't anticipate any problems, because I just 4 rarely see anybody stand on formalities. But don't 5 you have to have a page from the court reporter 6 saying that it is accurate?

7 MR. SMITH: Right.

8 MR. PASSINO: Yes.

9 THE COURT: So you're probably going to 10 need that, and so that kind of makes e-mailing it -- 11 I don't think that works.

12 MR. PASSINO: Okay. All right. We can 13 get it hand-delivered to the Court and e-mailed to 14 the parties if everybody is agreeable.

15 THE COURT: Okay. That will work.

16 MR. SMITH: That works.

17 MR. PASSINO: Okay.

18 THE COURT: Okay. You know what I'm 19 saying about the order and the court reporter and 20 everything is based on the fact that we don't have 21 automated filing. If we did, what I'm stating to you 22 wouldn't matter. But since we don't, you know, we 23 will have -- I will look forward to receiving that 24 document tomorrow. It will be entered tomorrow --
25 I'll sign it tomorrow, it will be entered tomorrow,

1 and I will have my office manager fax it to everybody
2 with stamped dates and the time and everything.

3 MR. PASSINO: Oh, good. Good.

4 THE COURT: Okay. Any other need that 5 anybody has?

6 MR. SMITH: Your Honor, the one issue
7 that the State would present is, this order being 8 entered tomorrow issues an interrogatory deadline of 9 today on the State. The State would seek some relief 10 from that given the pending order adopted and the 11 time we were proposed with the interrogatory. We 12 would just request relief from that.

13 THE COURT: I'm sorry; I didn't even 14 see that. I didn't even think about it.

15 MR. KISSINGER: Your Honor, those were 16 the interrogatory sets, were sent in terms of -- that 17 were sent for the very limited purpose of identifying 18 the Joe Doe defendants.

19 THE COURT: Oh, okay.

20 MR. SMITH: The State understands the 21 purpose of that was to get them served, which the 22 State has now adopted service on. But irrespective, 23 the State didn't receive them until the closing of 24 business Tuesday afternoon and just can't respond to 25 that in any detail today.

1 THE COURT: Okay. So it looks like 2 interrogatories have to do with -- do they ask for 3 the identity of these people?

4 MR. SMITH: Yes.

5 MR. KISSINGER: That's correct, your 6 Honor.

7 THE COURT: And when does the State
8 think they can provide that along with a protective 9 order?

10 MR. SMITH: The parties have been 11 discussing a protective order. I emailed one over 12 for review at 2:10 on Wednesday afternoon and have 13 not heard a final position from the opposing parties 14 yet.

15 My understanding is that we think we have an 16 agreement in principle, at least. But I'm waiting on 17 a response back from petitioners.

18 MR. PASSINO: Can we agree that if 19 you'll give Mr. Kissinger and our office and the 20 other plaintiffs' counsel 45 minutes, I can give you 21 or Mr. Kissinger can give you a call and maybe e-mail 22 you a proposed final draft?

23 MR. KISSINGER: Or maybe someone over
24 there at your office can do that, Mike. 45 minutes 25 puts us kind of late in the day.

1 MR. PASSINO: Okay. I apologize. How 2 about first thing tomorrow morning?

3 MR. KISSINGER: Yeah. That works.

4 MR. PASSINO: Okay.

5 MR. KISSINGER: If it works for the 6 State, of course.

7 MR. SMITH: The State does not -- there
8 still may be some objections to the interrogatories 9 based on how they are worded and the state of the 10 proceedings. But as far as the protective order, 11 that's something we can do I think regardless of our 12 interrogatory responses. We would like the 13 protective order in place before we respond to the 14 interrogatories.

15 MR. PASSINO: Absolutely, and 16 understood. What we'll do is, we'll get together, 17 the plaintiffs, immediately after this call, and then 18 we will get something to you the first of the morning 19 tomorrow on the protective order.

20 MR. SMITH: And I would ask the Court
21 if we have Wednesday to issue a response to this 22 initial round of interrogatories. We have a meeting 23 with the Department of Corrections tomorrow.

24 MR. PASSINO: Oh, that's absolutely
25 fine with us. I can't speak for Mr. Kissinger.

1 MR. KISSINGER: Oh, that's no problem
2 at all.

3 THE COURT: What should I put in here, 4 anything? Because what I can do when I get the 5 transcript is just strike through that subject 6 matter.

7 MR. PASSINO: We would prefer that you
8 would draft it with the modifications just discussed, 9 that the parties will enter an -- a protective order 10 or submit a protective order sometime tomorrow to the 11 Court for its approval, review and approval, and that 12 Mr. Smith will have until Wednesday at the close of 13 business to respond to interrogatories or to present 14 objections.

15 MR. KISSINGER: How does that work? I
16 mean, that's fine. That's fine with me. How does 17 that work for you, Andrew?

18 MR. SMITH: I think I can do that.

19 THE COURT: Wednesday, December 4?

20 MR. KISSINGER: Yes.

21 MR. SMITH: That's correct, your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. All right. I will 23 make that change when I get the transcript.

24 MR. KISSINGER: Okay. Good. And I'll 25 get that to you first thing tomorrow, Andrew, the 1 protective order, proposed protective order.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to get off 3 now, and you-all can talk, if you want to.

4 MR. PASSINO: Thank you.

5 MR. SMITH: Thank you, your Honor.

6 MS. HENRY: Thank you, your Honor.
