IN THE COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS OF TENNESSEE

AT NASHVILLE

FILED

DECEMBER 1994 SESSION

July 26, 1996

STATE OF TENNESSEE,	Appellate Court Clerk
APPELLEE,) No. 01-C-01-9210-CR-00304
v.)) Davidson County
)) J. Randall Wyatt, Judge
JOHN DAVID TERRY,) (Interlocutory Appeal)) APPELLANT.)

FOR THE APPELLANT:

Lionel R. Barrett, Jr. Attorney at Law 222 Second Ave., North, Suite 417 Nashville, TN 37201

Michael E. Terry Attorney at Law 150 Second Ave., North Nashville, TN 37201-1934

FOR THE APPELLEE:

Charles W. Burson Attorney General & Reporter 450 James Robertson Parkway Nashville, TN 37243-0497

Kathy Morante Deputy Attorney General 450 James Robertson Parkway Nashville, TN 37243-0493

Victor S. Johnson, III District Attorney General Washington Square, Suite 500 222 North Second Street, North Nashville, TN 37201-1649

John C. Zimmerman Assistant District Attorney General Washington Square, Suite 500 222 North Second Street, North Nashville, TN 37201-1649

Katy N. Miller Assistant District Attorney General Washington Square, Suite 500 222 North Second Street, North Nashville, TN 37201-1649

OPINION FILED:
----------------	--

AFFIRMED FOLLOWING REMAND

Joe B. Jones, Presiding Judge

OPINION

This Court granted the interlocutory appeal of John David Terry to address the issue of whether it is permissible to assert new aggravating circumstances in a capital case when the death sentence is set aside and a new sentencing hearing is granted. This Court held that "the state should not be permitted to engage in such a practice indiscriminately and without limitations. The accused must be protected from vindictive as well as piecemeal litigation." This Court concluded:

Before the state can assert a new aggravating circumstance at a resentencing hearing, the state must establish prior to the resentencing hearing that (a) it has discovered new evidence which will establish the new aggravating circumstance and (b) the new evidence was unavailable and undiscoverable prior to the initial sentencing hearing despite the state's diligent effort to fully investigate its case against the accused. Such a rule recognizes the right of the state to assert new aggravating circumstances while protecting the accused from vindictive or piecemeal litigation.²

On April 15, 1996, the Tennessee Supreme Court released its opinion in State v. Harris.³ The Supreme Court, like this Court, held that the double jeopardy clauses of the United States Constitution and the Tennessee Constitution do not bar the state from utilizing new aggravating circumstances at a second or new sentencing hearing. Also, the Supreme Court, like this Court, held that the provisions of Rule 12.3, Tennessee Rules of Criminal Procedure, do not prohibit the state from asserting new aggravating circumstances at a new sentencing hearing. However, the majority opinion in Harris held that "the State is free, at resentencing to introduce proof of any aggravating circumstance which is otherwise legally valid." In other words, the state is free to assert new aggravating circumstances at its discretion provided the circumstances are "legally valid." The two dissenting justices espoused the view that the state should be limited to the ¹State v. John David Terry, Davidson County No. 01-C-01-9210-CR-00304 at p. 20 (Tenn. Crim. App., Nashville, June 28, 1995).

²State v. John David Terry, supra at 21 (emphasis supplied).

³919 S.W.2d 323 (Tenn. 1996).

⁴Harris, 919 S.W.2d at 330.

aggravating circumstances "which were presented to and found by the jury at the original sentencing [hearing]."⁵

It is the duty and obligation of this Court to follow the common law rules of law created by our Supreme Court. Consequently, Section IV of this Court's prior opinion is vacated. This Court adopts the rule announced in Harris, namely, "the State is free, at resentencing to introduce proof of any aggravating circumstance which is otherwise legally valid."

The judgment of the trial court is affirmed.

	JOE B. JONES, PRESIDING JUDGE
CONCUR:
PAUL G. SUMMERS, JUDGE
JERRY SCOTT, SPECIAL JUDG	E

⁵Harris, 919 S.W.2d at 332 (White, J., dissenting).

⁶Harris, 919 S.W.2d at 330.